Omschrijving

Tough and capable, designed for twin engine installation, the Baltic models now well established in the Parker range is offered equally to the commercial, military & leisure markets where strength, space and seaworthiness are the priority. The best handling features have been incorporated into this large and strong design to provide the choice for offshore use. With her substantial beam she easily carries two large outboards or twin diesel stern drives and her 58 cm diameter buoyancy tubes provide immense safety and fendering when the going gets tough. With an exceptionally high flared bow and massive buoyancy tubes the Parker 900 Baltic is ideal for serious commercial and military work and with her large fuel tank capacity for long distance cruising. The first choice rib for professional seasafari operators.
